High Drama is a team of actors/writers/comedians who have banded together in order to bring you the finest independent sketch comedy in the world (well, at least in Philadelphia).

So come on down and check us out! You can be sure to get a laugh . . . or two, because we take comedy so seriously, it's not even funny.

Mark your hopefully unmarked calendars

High Drama is returning to the Lehigh Valley THIS Saturday at 9pm for a Steelstacks show with the fine young men of ManDudeBro!

Jackie
Actor/Writer/Company Manager

"High-minded vulgarity, low-brow sophistication."

Jackie hails from the great, warm state of Minnesota. She graduated from the University of Minnesota with a Journalism degree, and there she performed in shows such as A Lesson in Dead Language, and the world premier of Working. She also studied acting at The Betty Ann Norton Theater School in Dublin, Ireland.

To date, her favorite shows have been Mr. Marmalade (Bradley), Nunsense II: The Second Coming (Mother Superior) and The Glass Menagerie (Amanda Wingfield). An original member of High Drama, and company manager, Jackie hopes to continue writing and acting with the group until 2012, when the world's supposed to end. And, if it doesn't end, well, that will just be awkward for everyone.

Favorite Sketches:

Greeting Cards
Somalian Pirate Sing-along
Gyno
Bleached Ahole
Beauty and the Beast

Memorable Characters:

a terrible Richard Nixon
a worse Ozzy Osbourne
a dead grandma
